GUITAR DUO: AN AFTERNOON DELIGHT

Bundanon Trust will host an afternoon of guitar virtuosity on Sunday 18 March at Riversdale, with Rupert Boyd and Jacob Cordover - The Australian Guitar Duo.

The Australian Guitar Duo is becoming recognised as one of the most dynamic and exciting guitar ensembles on the music scene. The duo has performed throughout the world, including at the New York Guitar Duo Festival and Meadowlark Music Festival in the US, Project Cancion Española in Spain, Festival de Musique Classique in France and numerous major cities throughout their native Australia.

The concert will also mark a significant moment because of Rupert's relation to Arthur Boyd.

"It is a great pleasure that we invite Rupert Boyd to Riversdale," said Deborah Ely, Bundanon Trust's CEO. "Rupert, who visits Riversdale for the first time, is the grandson of the architect Robin Boyd, who was Arthur Boyd's cousin. Rupert is talented in his own right, yet we are delighted to see the lineage of gifted artists continue."

The Duo play handmade Australian guitars and perform a mixture of contemporary Australian compositions and standard works from the guitar duo repertoire. They are respected soloists in their own right. They met and formed as a duo in 2000 while undertaking studies at the Australian National University School of Music, where they studied with renowned Australian guitarist Timothy Kain before heading overseas.

The Australian Guitar Duo has been broadcast on radio stations throughout Australia and the United States and was a prize winner of the chamber music division of the Australian Guitar Competition.

In 2012 they are back in Australia for a nationwide concert tour to release their debut CD Songs from the Forest, recorded in London in August 2011.
